STABBING RIGHT AND LEFT. A CRAZY FRENCHMAN'S WORK AMONG A THRONG OF SHOPPERS.

Racing Through Fourteenth Street and Thrusting at All he Met with a Pair of Painters' Compasses—Many Women Wounded—A Policeman's Wife Fatally Burt-The Narratives of the Victims. At 41 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when Fourteenth street between Broadway and Sixth avenue was crowded with women out shopping, a madman ran westward from Broadway, holding a sharp weapon in his hand and stabbing at every one he met. Ladies ran screaming across the street and rushed headlong into the nearest stores. The man pursued them, and stabbed many before he was finally thrown down and secured. It is known that eight ladies, two boys, and one man were stabled. Many others who were wounded went to their homes without reporting their names to the police. The woman who was most seriously injured was the wife of the policeman who finally secured the madman. She was Mrs. Mary Hanley, aged 28 years. Her husband, Policeman Charles A. Hanley, was posted in Fourteenth street. She was stabbed in the left breast, and it is thought that the

Miss M L. King, 420 East Fifty-seventh street, stabbed twice in the left hip.

Minn Louisa Checker, aged 22, of West Fifty-first street stabbed in the back.

An unknown young woman, stabbed in the right wrist and left breast. Ernest Doubourgne, the man who did the stabbing, has been a familiar figure in the streets. For many years he has carried two large signs slung across his shoulders, and bearing several sentences written in irregular white letters. He is 37 years of age, and is a sign painter by trade. He was dressed yesterday in a loose, light-brown suit of clothes, much worn and spotted with paint. He is about five feet six inches in height, of medium build, with light brown hair and red moustache. His face is of high color, his eyes are bloodshot, and his chin is covered with a week's growth of coarse red beard. The weapon he used was a pair of measuring compasses, about eight inches long, such as painters and carpenters use in their work. It has two polished steel shanks that taper down has two polished steel shanks that taper down to sharp points. Sometimes he opened it wide and stabbed with one shank, and at other times he closed it and inflicted a double wound.

He seems to have begun his assaults on the couth side of Fourteenth street, between Broadway and Fifth avenue, and opposite to E. A. Giesen's millinery story, at 16 East Fourteenth street. He knocked a woman down, and, drawing the compasses from his pocket, ran at a group of women who were passing, and thrust at them with his weapon. He cut the dresses of two or three, but it cannot be learned that he wounded any one there. A handsomely dressed woman ran into Giesen's and showed where the back of her damask silk dress had been ripped up. A light-haired woman in light blue, said to live in Bridgeport, Conn., next attracted Doubourgne's notice. He chased her to the door of Johnson's millinery store, and there knocked her down. He attempted to enter the store, where many women had run, but they slammed the door in his face and held it fast. This all happened so quickly that several women who were looking at the articles in Johnson's windows had no time to escape. He attacked them, and stabbed Mrs. Stoizenberg and Miss King.

The cry of "Murder!" was now raised, and them, and stabbed Mrs. Stolzenberg and Miss King.

The cry of "Murder!" was now raised, and the atreet became the scene of the wildest commotion. A rush was made for the nearest stores, and women feil down basement steps, and staggered fainting into the shops. In a few moments the street was almost deserted. In the words of an eyewitness, "It seemed as if a cyclone had struck it." But in the brief time that it took to clear it. Doubourgne found a chance to do still more of his terrible work. He pursued Miss Louisa Checker as she was fleeing and stabbed her in the buck. Then he struck down Miss Pauline Fiedler on the crossing with a wound in the breast. With every new yictim his excitement seemed to increase, and and stabbed her in the back. Then he struck down Miss Pauline Fledler on the crossing with a wound in the breast. With every new victim his excitement seemed to increase, and he waved his weapon over his head and looked for others to attack.

Mrs. Hanley was walking at the southwest corner of Fourteenth street and Fifth avenue, when Doubourgne met her. She had her two little children with her, and her arms were filled with bundles. She was expecting every moment to meet her husband. Doubourgne had been holding the compasses in his left hand. He now changed them to his right hand, and lunged at her. The prongs pierced her left side, and she fell bleeding. Going on a short distance Doubourgne met Mrs. Worth and stabbed her, and then struck twice an unknown young woman. These are the only ones who are positively known to have been stabbed but from the statements of eye witnesses it is believed that many others were stabbed whose names have not been reported.

Doubourgne ran about 100 feet west of Sixth avenue, when he turned and retreated to the corner. A crowd of men and boys gathered around, but dared not approach him. Finally a voung man crept up behind and, seizing him by the collar, threw him down. In a moment a dozen men jumped upon him and held him. The compasses were wrenched from his hands. He threw up his arms before his face, as if he expected blows. Several women were lying wounded on the sidewalk. They were picked up and carried to the nearest stores. Mrs. Hanley was taken into the office of W. H. Hume, 78 Fifth avenue, and Mrs. Worth into the basement of the residence at 76 Fifth avenue. The unknown young woman went into the office of Aiden & Sterne, at 2 West Fourteenth street, and Mr. Sterne bandaged two severe wounds on her right wrist. She said she was also stabbed in the left breast. She went away, refusing to give her name. Several of the wounded were taken into the Palais Royal and Johnson's store.

wounds on her right wrist. She said she was also stabbed in the left breast. She went away, refusing to give her name. Several of the wounded were taken into the Palais Royal and Johnson's store.

Policeman Hanley was walking westwardly from Broadway when he saw people running from the Southeast corner of Fifth avenue and Fourteenth street. They scattered over the street. Many were screaming wildly. He ran to learn the cause, and came up just as Doubourgne was thrown down. He stood him on his feet, and was then handed the ecompasses and was told that eight or ten women had been stabbed. He summoned Policeman Hall from Broadway, and turned Doubourgne over to his care while he went to look out for the wounded. He took the names of those at Johnson's, and then assisted to place Mrs. Worth in an ambulance that had been summoned from the New York Hospital. He was told that there was a woman very badly hurt in Hume's office, and he went in to carry her out. She was his wife. Her little children were crying beside her. She was placed in the ambulance with Mrs. Worth went home after her woundwas dressed. Miss Checker and Miss Fiedler walked to the hospital had their wounds attended to.

Miss Fieder was confined to her bed last evening. She said she was in company with another woman, and was crossing Fifth avenue, when Doubourgner ushed ather and struck her with his left hand. She fainted, and was taken into Johnson's.

Mrs. Maria Stoizenberg was standing beside her sister. Mrs. Anna Hass, looking into Johnson's window. She heard screams, and before she could turn she was stabbed three times in the back, botteen the shoulder blades and in the small of the back, but not dangerously.

Miss Mis Mis King was beeking into Johnson's window when she heard a commention and cries of "Run, or hell kill you!" She turned and struck her in the side. She did not notice the wound till some time afterward, when she was in the store, but the door was shut. The man then came from behind a shownesse and struck her in the side. She did not ALEXANDRIA, Oct. 10 .- Four natives were executed to-day at Damanhour for murder.

The correspondent of the Daily News at Cairo says Arabi Pasha believes that his life is in danger. There have been certain incidents which might demoralize the Circassians guarding him. One of the Khedive's entourage has been heard to say that he would like to administer to Arabi a cup of bad coffee, and the Khedive has remarked that he and Arabi could not live in the same country.

The sheikh who was arrested on Sunday at Tantah for attempting to incite a massacre has received 100 lashes, and will be kept in confinement. Large quantities of arms have been seized at Tantah, and the number of watchmen there has been doubled. About 200 Circassians, Albanians, and Turks, recruited for the gendarmeric, have arrived here.

CARO, Oct. 10.—When the rebel prisoners were delivered to the Expytian authorities the English insisted that they be allowed legal assistance. The Expytians contend that this condition does not bind them to permit the engagement of foreign coursel. The question will be referred to the Foreign Office.

Gen. Sharpe said that several gentlemen who had been asked to take the nomination for Congressman at Large had declined. He then named as candidates who would accept Gen. John C. Hobinson of Broome. John A. King of Queens, Ferris Jacobs, Jr. of Delaware, and Howard Carroll of New York.

A recess was taken, during which notes were compared. A plurality were for Howard Carroll, but other candidates had friends. One of the members showed to another a list of men, any one of whom, he said, might have been nominated if he would have consented to run. On this list were the names of Mr. William A. Wheeler, the Lone Fisherman of the St. Lawrence and ex-Fraudulent Vice-President of the Linted States; S. B. Chittenden, Gen. Isaac S. Catlin, District Attorney of Kings county; Gen. George H. Sharpe, Alexander E. Orr, Gen. Anson G. McCook, Albert Daggett, Gen. Henry A. Barnum, Gen. Joseph B. Carr. Charles E. Fitch of the Bochester Democrat, Gen. Chas. K. Graham, James Redpath, Gen. Francis C. Barlow, Hamilton Fish, Jr., Jackson S. Schultz, and Enoch I. Fancher.

When the committee reassembled an informal vote was taken. Howard Carroll was named by Tierro C. Van Wyck, De Witt C. Wheeler, Jacob M. Patterson, Jr., Cornelius Van Cott. Charles F. Bruder, Michael Cregan, Frank Baymond, William H. Robertson, William D. Dickey, George H. Sharpe, Alexander M. Holmes, Chester S. Cole, John M. Davy, and James D. Warren. Ferris Jacobs was named by George Z. Erwin, Abram C. Crosby, John W. Vrooman, Taliesen Evans, William J. Montanye, William B. Parkhurst, and James Low, Corporal James Teanner received the votes of William H. Beard, Marcus Baird, Samuel T. Madox, John F. Smyth, James S. Smart, and Andrew Williams. Mr. Stephen A. Titus voted for John A. King.

The Chairman announced that Mr. Carrol hat the Republicans in the strong Democrat that there was much disaffection. They thought it would lesson before the election. Police Justice Jacob M. Patterson, Jr., said that the Republicans in the strong Democratic districts in this city were essentially machine men. It made little difference to them who was nominated by the party. They would vote the ticket. The danger in New York was in the districts where the merchants, bankers, and other business men resided. Those men made up their minus after reading. He admitted that there was dissatisfaction in his own district, but believed that the party would be in good shape there by election day.

Capt. Michael Cregan said that his district, which is east of Third avenue, was largely Democratic, but the Republicans were at work.

William D. Dickey of Orange said that everything was in good shape in his county, and Gen. Sharre predicted the usual Republican vote in Ulster. Both gentlemen admitted that there was disaffection in their counties.

John F. Smyth said that the Republicans would do well enough in Albany, and Andrew Williams said that there was considerable apathy in Clinton.

Mr. George Z. Erwin of St. Lawrence was not so sanguine about his county. He said that the Republicans were greatly dissatisfied with the ticket.

Abram C. Grosby of Delaware said that there was much disaffection in that county, and John W. Vrooman reported the same feeling in Herkimer, Lewis, and Jefferson counties.

Taliesen Evans of Oneida said he had not heard any Republicans say that they would not vote the ticket, but had been told that there were such men in the county.

Senator Holmes said that most of the disaffection in Madison county would diappear before the election. Then Mr. W. J. Montanye of Cortinan county, who was Judge A. P. It must be understood that there were three Democratic organizations in the city, each of which was equally entitled to be recognized in the nominations to be made. There must be concessions on all sides. It was evident that the time had come when the Democracy could secure a better representation in the municipal, State and Federal Governments. Mr. Haskin said that he wanted some man like Mr. Kelly nominated for Mayor. He predicted 50,000 majority for the State ticket.

Senator Boyd presented a resolution from the Anti-Monopolists recommending that men with anti-monopoly records be nominated for Congressmen. Assemblymen, and Aldermen. Among the resolutions adopted was one referring to Wm. H. Vanderbilt's "the public be damned" as evidence of the perversity of railroad managers and their indifference to public rights. Another was this:

That we condemn as ill-advised and disastrous the policy which for a number of years has been pursued by the Mayors of this city with respect to cortain departments of the city Government; and that this policy, influenced possibly by ambition has resulted in attact upon public officers for the purpose of securing control city departments, to be used in political interests not relevant to the cause of good government or the welfare of the taxpayers; and that such policy has burdened the taxpayers with an university load of expense, not less in the aggregate than $250,000.

The Convention adjourned to Saturday evening.

Elliot Sandford presided at the opening of the Irving Hall County Convention in Irving Hall list evening, and made a speech in favor of local Democratic harmony. The Convention organized with Sheriff Bowe as permanent Chairman, Dr. Austin Fiint, Jr., and Alfred Wagstaff were named among the Vice-Presidents. Sheriff Bowe said he would join in no trading or jugglery to cheat the public. The Convention adopted the resolution recently passed by the General Committee. The Campaign Committee, already appointed, was empowered to take all proper means to secure the union of all Democratic organizations in the nomination and support of such a local ticket as will inspire the electors with confidence in the party and arouse them to an active support of the State ticket." The Convention then adjourned subject to call.

RICHARD O'GORMAN FOR JUDGE.

Steps Taken to Renominate him for the Office

A meeting of about 400 gentlemen, representing every Assembly district in the city of New York, was held at 69 West Washington square on Monday evening to organize a central association for the purpose of promoting the nomination and election of Richard O'Gorman to the office of Judge of the Superior Court. The meeting organized by the election of officers as follows: The Hon. Henry Hughes, President: William J. Donnelly and the Hon.

President: William J. Donnelly and the Hon. Edmund Connelly, Vice-Presidents; Major Edward Duffy, Treasurer; Valentine Daly, Secretary; James Gregory, Sergeant-at-Arms. On motion of Edmund Connelly, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

Warrens, At a general election held in the city of New York in November, 1981, Beinard O'Gorman was elected Judge of the Superior Court on the nomination of all the Democratic organizations in this city; and whereas, he was prevented from performing the duties of that office by the action of the Governor of the State of New York who appointed another sentleman to fill the same; and whereas a troublesome and laborious suit instituted at the instance of the said O'Gorman and carried on at his expense, in order to sustain the people's vote, has failed of any definite result, leaving the question of legal title the office, as far as that suit is concerned, wholly undetermined.

Nominations for Congress were made by each of the ten Assembly districts. Both McAdoo and Allen L. McDermott were nominated in the First, while McAdoo alone was put forward by the Second and Third. The Fourth nominated McDermott. The Fifth hauled up the McAdoo banner, while the Sixth put forward the names of McAdoo. McDermott, Col. E. P. C. Lewis of Heboken, and Henry S. Meigrs of Bayonne. The Seventh and Eighth nominated McAdoo. McDermott captured the Ninth. Honors were equally divided between McAdoo and McDermott in the Tenth.

The vote stood 114 for McAdoo, 69 for McAdoo was thereupon declared the nominee, and the nomination was made unanimous. He had received the solid delegation from the Third Assembly district, under the leadership of Surrogate McAvoy, while with two exceptions he had obtained the support of Assemblyman McLaughlin's cohorts from the Seventh. In the other Assembly districts the vote was more evenly divided. The candidate said after being escorted into the hall, that he hoped that no man would ever have cause to regret voting for piain Billy McAdoo.

When the Congressional Convention adjourned it reassembled as a County Convention, and nominated John C. Hughes for Coroner. Mr. Hughes, who is a young man, owes his nomination to his personal popularity. He and his brothers have for years worked in the Democratic ranks without seeking office. EATON FOR CONGRESS AGAIN.

HARTFORD, Oct. 10.—The Democratic District Convention, which met here to-day, was thoroughly representative, confident, and happy. An aged ex-Republican, the Hon. Albert Austin, one of the 1872 converts, pre-sided. The routine business having been got out of the way, Mr. Mahlon R. West of this city, after lashing the Republicans for condemning out of the way, Mr. Mahlen R. West of this city, after lashing the Republicans for condemning the River and Harbor bill and then renominating John R. Buck, who voted for it, utlered the mane all had been waiting for that of sturdy, incorruptible William W. Eaton. It was received as it always is in any gathering of Connecticut Democrats. The venerable ex-Lieut. Gov. Hyde, who might sit for a portrait of Col. Tom Newcome, seconded the nomination on behalf of Tolland county. The vote was unanimous, and a committee was sent for Mr. Eaton. When the familiar gray head appeared, the roar of welcome was trait democratic.

The ex-Senator began his speech by saying he would have preferred that the nomination should have gone to another man, but did not feel at liberty to decline. I have no pledges to make, he said—no pledges that I will not vote against every one of them, and I do not need to make any pledges now. But the interests of my native State are dear to me. My record in the past is to be my record in the future. I have no money and God knows if I had I wouldn't use it to buy a vote. If I am elected it must be by the unbought suffrages of my fellow citizens. You should be represented not be never did so."

The Republican majority in this district at the last election was between 1,900 and 2,000, but Mr. John R. Buck and his party friends fully realize that this is a very solemn occasion.

OHIO GOES DEMOCRATIC.

THE REPUBLICANS BEATEN BY TEN THOUSAND MAJORITY.

Sharp Fight in Cincinnati-Butterworth Probably Defeated and the County Carried by the Democrats-The Latest Returns.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 10.-Sunshine and shade have alternated in Ohio to-day. The leaders of both political parties have felt the varied influence. When the polls opened in Cincinnati this tory. It was believed, after the balloting had been in progress two hours, that nothing could save the Republican ticket, State or Con-gressional. Then the Democratic leaders became apathetic. At noon their sun was clouded, it was ascertained that many Germans were sticking closer to their old political ties. They were scratching the State ticket, to be sure, but they were believed to be voting for the Republican county and Congress tickets. Moerlein, a conspicuous brewer who had been prominent in the anti-Repub-lican movement, was known to have voted for Butterworth. This meant 400 additional votes for the Republican candidate. All the afternoon the Republicans felt more jubilant. It was believed that John Sherman's advice had fallen on good ground. It looked as though Butterworth would go back to Congress, and if Hayes was not big enough to shelve Foster, Butterworth could help him. In was known that Smith had more to contend against than Butterworth, but it was believed that by the aid of the entire working force of the Internal Revenue Department he was also to pull through. The Democrats had evidently by over-confidence in the morning, and a grand rush was being made upon their lines in by over-confidence in the morning, and a grand rush was being made upon their lines in the hopes of a general stampede. United States Marshals were hurried hither and thither in the hope of accomplishing the destruction of the Democratic lines. As the afternoon passed the confidence in the Republican success became more and more general. The vote everywhere was known to be remarkably large. This was accepted as a hopeful sign for the Republicans. Several large bets to the effect that the Republican candidate for Sheriff would obtain 1,000 majority were offered only to find no takers. At 5 o'clock the Democrats were frightened. From then until 6 o'clock the fighting on both sides was brilliant. When the polls closed the Republican leaders went home to supper confident of victory. This feeling prevailed for several hours.

It is now 100 clock, and that feeling has dispersed like mist. The SUN's correspondent is writing from the Lincon Club. There are 10,000 people standing patiently in the streets and the park which it faces. They are all Republicans, and are groaning and hissing while figures of Democratic gains everywhere. But the vote is not half counted. Here it is believed that the Democratic gains everywhere, But the vote is not half counted. Here it is believed that the Democratic gains everywhere, But the vote is not half counted. Here it is believed that the Democratic gains everywhere, But the vote is not half counted. Here it is believed that the Democratic state ticket is elected by 10,000 majority. Hamilton county is expected to give a Democratic majority of 8,000, and that means defeat for both Republican Congressmen.

At the Commercial office the reports are more encouraging. It is believed there that some of the County Republican estimates defeat Butterworth by 1,500, and Smith by 3,000 majority, and show constant Democratic gains which

The latest Republican estimates defeat Butterworth by 1,500, and Smith by 3,000 majority.

Returns from Hamilton County, so far as received, show constant Democratic gains, which indicate at this writing the election of the entire Democratic ticket. From the few full returns received it is apparent that the Democratic State ticket has many more votes than the Congressional and county tickets, but it is difficult to see how the difference can be great enough to elect the Republican candidates for Congress in the First and Second districts. The vote of Marietta city and township gives Warner (Dem.) for Congress a gain of 345. Horr's (Rep.) estimated majority in Huron county is 400.

11:30 P. M.—There is yet little definite information. The Democratic State ticket will win by 10,000, and Hamilton county will not give less than 8,000 Democratic majority. Smith, for Congress, will doubtless be beaten. The most confident Republicans figure a small majority for Butterworth, while the Democrate believe Follett will have 500 majority.

Returns compiled from twenty-three precinets of Hamilton county show that in about one-fourth of the entire vote the candidates on the Democratic State ticket average 500 more votes than the Democratic state ticket average 500 more votes than the Democratic state the Republicans will elect their candidate for Sheriff.

The Democratic gain in twenty precincts is 3,620. At the same rate for the remaining precincts the Democratic majority would be 12,000. The Hepublicans concede Follett, Democrat, in Collymous, Oct. 10.—Returns from the State election held to-day are coming in rapidly. The gains and losses reported are based upon a comparison with the vote for Governor in 1881, when the Republican majority was 24,309. There are 1,967 precincts in the State. Three hundred and sixty-two precincts give a Democratic gain of 6,256. At the same rate the Democratic gain of 6,256. At the same rate the Democratic gain of 6,256. At the same rate the Democratic gain of 6,256. At the same rate the Democratic gain of 12,278. The reports already received are from all parts of the State, and indicate a general Democratic gain. In the cities, Cincinnati, Columbus, Cleveland, and Toledo, the Democratic gains are large.

TOLEDO, Oct. 10.—The indications at midnight are that the Democrats carry this county on the State and county tickets by about 300 majority. King, Republican, for Congress, runs ahead of his ticket, and will probably have 200 majority in the county.

Toledo city complete gives Hurd, Democrat, for Congress, 181 majority. The majority for Newman in the city—two precincts estimated—is 297.

The returns already received indicate the election of Hurd. The Democrats claim his majority to be 500 in the District.

DATON, Oct. 10.—Montgomery county gives Murray (Dem.) for Congress about 1,300 majority. Seitz (Rep.) is probably elected in the district by a small majority. The entire Democratic county ticket in this county is elected.

Washington, Oct. 10.—The following was received here to-night from Speaker Keifer:
Springfield, Oct. 10.—I will certainly be elected, but reports from the State are not encouraging.

The Result in West Virginia.

The Result in West Virginia.

WHEELING, Oct. 10 .- Ohio county, the home of the Democratic candidate for Congress, and hitherto Democratic by about 300 majority, has given a Democratic majority of less than 50. Reports from interior counties indicate the probable election of Goff (Rep.) to Congress from the First district by a small majority. The Second and Fourth districts have been hotly contested. There is not much doubt that both were carried by the Democrats by majorities ranging from 1,000 to 1,500 each.

Later.—The First district has elected Goff (Rep.) to Congress by from 300 to 500 majority. The same counties in 1830 gave Gen. Hancock for President a majority of 1,484.

CHARLESTON, Oct. 10.—John E. Kenna (Dem.) was redlected to Congress to-day by a small majority from the Third district. of the Democratic candidate for Congress, and NEWARK, Oct. 10 .- In the charter election today, the recent embezziement of city funds by Republi can officials and the large increase of the debt and tax rate since the Republicans gained centrol of the Common rate since the Republicans gained control of the Common Council, gave the Democrats a decided advantage. The vote was light because many Republicans refrained from voting. In the contest over Aldermen, the Democrats carried ten of the fifteen wards which will make the new Council as ie. In the present Beard there are 22 Republicans and 8 Democrats. The Republican candidate for Water Commissioner last year received a majority of 2,800. Toolay the Republican majority for the same office is 380.

The Republican Aldermen chosen, and their majorities, are as follows. Brancaw First ward. So, Marghy Threi ward, 131, Sanford, Ninth ward, 120, Harnett Four tenth ward, 128, Thebarath, Effecuth ward surfices in Fourth, 160, Commelly, Fifth, 21c. Hominger, Dank, I. O'Commelly, Sanford and Thebarath have been independent and reform Republican. They are now expected to join the Democrats in making some changes of city officers.

Union County's Nominees.

RAHWAY, Oct. 10.—At the Union County Democratic Convention hold at Elizabeth, this afternoon Dr. James S. Green presided, with Charles B. Place and Wil. James F. Green presided, with Charles B. Place and Wil-liam L. Force as becretaries. James S. Voss-ler of Plain-field was manimously mominated for County Clerk, and James J. Gerber of Elizabeth for Surrogate. No other candidates were mentioned. Dr. Watter E. Gladek of this city was mominated for Coroner. Confidence in the election of the above nominess by a large majority is very generally expressed. It is thought that George T. Parroit will be nominated for Surrogate at the Republi-can Convention, which is to be held on Thursday.

The registration yesterday was 55,222. In 1841 on the first day it was 35,070; in 1880, 72,388, and in 1870, 38,672.

THE WRECK OF THE HERDER.

The Vessel Given to the Salvors and her Passengers on the Way to St. Johns.

CAPE RACE, Oct. 10 .- The steamer Neptune arrived here early this morning from St. Johns, with Judge Prowse and a squad of policemen on board, proceeded to the wrecked steamer Herder, and took aboard her passengers, crew, mails, and specie. The ship was given to the salvors. Capt. Tisch-tein says she foundered last night, and he does not believe that as much of the cargo will be saved as was at first expected. The wrecked steamer is in the same position as she was yes-terday, with one rock under her bow and another under her stern, both on the port side. There are several holes in her bottom, and all the compartments are full of water. She must have come very close around Mistaken Point, as her present position plainty indicates that had she been a little more than a length further off she would have cleared everything. Had she gone half a length closer to shore it would doubtless have proved fatal to all hands. A gentle breeze continues from the southwest, but considerable sea is heaving in. If the wind increases, not much of the hull will remain together by morning. The salvors are taking the cargo out, and 2,000 packages have airoady been landed, consisting of lard, cotton, and a large consignment of cooked meats in tin cans. The Neptune, with the passengers and crew of the Herder, passed Cape Bace at 3'4 for St. Johns, and will doubtless arrive there about midnight. the compartments are full of water.

DISTRESS IN PENSACOLA.

No Signs of an Abatement of Yellow Fever -Sickness, Denth, and Suffering, PENSACOLA, Oct. 10.—The developments of the last few days have shown the fallacy of the hopes entertained of an early abatement of the yellow fever epidemic. Within three days 175 new cases and 10 deaths have been reported. The report for to-day shows 50 new cases, besides 0 of other fevers, and 3 deaths. The total number of cases to date is 1,350, and of deaths, 113 Some of the new cases are of an aggravated character, and there is no reason to hope for a diminution of the death rate. Grant distress prevails in the community, especially among the ingrovident negroes thrown out of employment, and the demands upon the Board of Health are incessant and increasing. The Board has made a formal appeal to the country at large for aid. The contributions thus far have been chiefly from Mobile, Montgomery, Memphis, and a few other places in this and adjacent States. The insufficiency of funds is becoming alarming. The pay of nurses has been cut down and other expenses curtailed to the lowest point, causing much discontent and murmuring; meanwhile the sick and destitute are increasing in numbers. The singation is serious, and appeals strongly to the sympathies of the humans. Contributions should be made to D. G. Brent, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Board of Health. The weather is warm and unsettled. 115 Some of the new cases are of an aggravated char-

Courtesy to the Ladies. Few women availed themselves of the privilege of voting at the annual school elections held last evening in Richmond county. The most interesting elec-tion, the result of which was not decided up to midnight, took place in the school house at West night, took place in the school house at West Brighton. It was preceded by a school meeting of the three school trustees and the citizens of School district 20fths town of Castleton. George William Curtis was elected Chairman. Eight women, among whom were Mrs. Shaw. Mr. Cartis's mother-in-law, were present. Mr. Curtis declared that the meeting was ready to receive nominations for a candidate to fill a vacancy in the Board of School Trustees. Charles W. Hunt. M. D. Simonson, and Daniel Campbell were nominated. Mr. Curtis proposed that out of courteey as American citizens the ladies be permitted to cast their ballots first. This was acceded to unanimously and room was made for the ladies. They cast their votes and were then escorted home.

RICHMOND, Oct. 10.-Congressman G. D. Wise was before the Police Court to-day on the charge of he-ing about to fight a duel with John Aubler Smith. Only one witness could be found to testify against him, and he said that while he had heard Mr. Wise say he intendhe said that while he had heard Mr. Wise say he intended to kill Smith on sight, yet the writness was now anished that Mr. Wise had cooled down, and that there would be no more trouble. While everybody is predicting and expecting a duel, no one was willing to come forward and demand that Mr. Wise be put under bonds, and so he was disclosured from costody. John Ambier Smith spoke yesterday in Carolina Komith, and is to-day in Washington. At Carolina Mr. Smith, in his speech, expressed his willingness to fight the whole Wise family. An intimate friend of Congressina Wise, when told this sevening that Wise had been denounced by Smith as a liar, coward, secondrel, and buildozer, sain that Smith would have to retract that language or fight Wise, and that very soon.

LIFE IN THE METROPOLIS.

DASHES HERE AND THERE BY THE SUN'S REPORTERS.

to Greet Him at the Fall River Boat-His Cabinet and the Members of his Party. There were many callers at President Arthur's house, 123 Lexington avenue, yester-day morning. Secretaries Chandler, Lincoln, and Teller, and First Assistant Postmaster-General Hatton were present at the Cabinet meeting. Nothing was said concerning Secretary Folger's resignation, and the only matter discussed was the trip to Boston. Secretaries Lincoln and Chandler and Mr. Hatton agreed to go. The other members of the Cabinet have pleaded imperative engagements.

The President left the house at 4 o'clock, accompanied by Secretary Chandler and Surregate Rollins. A crowd waited on the steam-boat Old Colony at the foot of Murray street for his appearance. C. F. Choate, the President of the Fall River line, and C. N. Bliss, a director, the Fall River line, and C. N. Bliss, a director, were among those at the gangplank. Secretary Lincoln was the first of the President's party to arrive. At 5 o'clock the President same aboard, and raised his hat in return to the salutations of the spectators. He went at once to his room, the stateroom known as the bridal chamber. Besides the two Secretaries and Mr. Hatton, the gentlemen who necompanied him to Boston were Mr. M. W. Cooper, Mr. G. E. Miller, Private Secretary Phillips, Surrogats Rollins, Mr. Choate, and Mr. Bliss, and Mr. Stephen M. Allen and others of the Boston delegation. They will be received in Boston tomorrow by the representatives of the city of Boston and State of Massachusetts, and there will be a public reception by the city in the evening. On Thursday they will attend the Webster memorial services at Marshfield, and on Friday the President's partywill return to this city.

The President has declined a dinner tendered to him by merchants and other citizens of Boston, because of official duties which require his presence in New York on Friday evening.

Mrs. Depeyster's Rough Caller.

Patrick McGee of 301 East Thirty-first street rang the bell on Friday evening at Mrs. Augusta De-peyster's residence, 112 East Thirty-sixth street, and asked in a loud and angry tone for his wife. He was told that nobody in the house knew his wife, and was requested to leave. He then attempted to strike Mrs. requested to leave. He then attempted to strike Mra Depeyster, but was ejected by the servants. As he departed he declared he would blow the house up with dynamite if his wife was not returned to him. On Mon day evening a boy hought Mrs. Depeyster a note from him, in which he repeated his threat. Mrs. Depeyster repiled, asking McGeo to come to the corner of Thirty-sixth street and Park syenue. She then complained to Sergeant Grow at the Fifty dirst street station, and when McGeo appeared at the appointed place he was arrested. At Yorkville Folice Court vesterday it appeared from the evidence that McGeo's wife had left him because of brutal treatment, and that for some reason he believed she was at Mrs. Depeyster's Justice Kibreth placed him under $500 hail to keep the peace for six months.

Mending the Latest Tunnel Break.

Workmen were busy yesterday repairing the son River tunnel on Monday. The occurrence was precisely like others that have happened a number of times during the three years' progress of the work. Col. Has-kin said the men had become a little careless from overkin said the men had become a little carcless from over-confidence. The air locks are so arranged that with any ordinary warning the men have ample time to refrent. In this last case, as soon as the decrease of air pressure and running in of the water occurred, the men tried for an hour to stop the leak, and then refrested in safety Foreman Phil Fleming, in a diving suit, was the first to reenter the tunnel. After a careful survey he reported that the blow-out could be mended. Men went to work at once, and Chief Engineer Flinch said he had no doubt that the work of excavation and building would be going that the work of excavation and building would be going on to-day as usual. The tunnel has been extended about 75 feet on the New York side, and has reached the builkhead.

The Bobtall System to Blame.
